SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE

1. Prior to 1954, all types of injuries treated either by a physician in a hospital or by a private practitioner had to be reported to the Public Security (VB) in a routine written report. However, since 1954, the treatment of any injury has had to be reported immediately to the VB by telephone. This order affects all medical practitioners and hospitals. Normal sicknesses are not included under this directive, but infectious diseases are reported in writing to the ONV (District National Committee) Medical Officer.

2.   there are still a few private practitioners such as physicians, specialists, dental surgeons, who have their own medical practice; however, this number is steadily declining, since new doctors are not given permission to practice privately.
